Induction of The Rev. W. H. Muncaster

The formal induction of Rev. W. H. Muncaster, M. A., B. D., into the First Presbyterian church of Blairmore, took place on Wednesday afternoon, when a goodly number of the members and adherents of the church were present.

Among the ministers present were Revs. Boyle, of Medicine Hat, Wylie and King, of Pasco, T. M. Murray, of Coleman, and mission superintendent, Dr. Ferguson.

An able sermon was preached by Dr. Ferguson, after which Rev. Mr. Murray made a few introductory remarks, relating to step followed leading up to the call of Rev. Mr. Muncaster to the pastoral charge of the Blairmore Presbyterian church.

The induction charge was delivered by Rev. Mr. Boyle, after which the newly installed pastor received congratulations from those present.

Concluding part of the ceremony was adjourned till 7.30, when the newly induced pastor was addressed by the Rev. James Lang. Rev. Mr. Murray was next on the platform, making a brief statement and delivered a hymn, the words from the words "Do Your Duty."

Rev. Mr. Bryan, of Lethbridge, who was to have been present to deliver the sermon at the afternoon's proceedings, arrived on the "foot" at 3.30, and reached the church just before the close of the meeting. He was called upon for a few remarks after which the benediction was pronounced.

Blairmore Fine Fan Destroyed by Fire

The town of Blairmore was aroused late Sunday night by an alarm of fire and examination disclosed the fact that the large fan house and fan in the mountain south of the mine was ablaze. However the fire was too far away to be reached and in a few minutes the fan house which was about 50x20 feet, together with the large fan was completely demolished. The fan was installed about a year ago at which time the house was also erected over it.

The loss to the West Canadian Collieries is considerable, but we understand it will not seriously interfere with the working of the mine.

The R. N. W. M. P. Yearly Record

The annual report of the mounted police shows that they are instrumental in saving the lives of 45,397 babies. The consideration of the number of the force is very satisfactory.

The result is encouraging in view of the criticism which the force has lately received owing to the action of a few of its units, as was the case in Regina.

The record shows a large activity, and serves to proclaim the usefulness of this time-honored body of men in the detection of crime. If some of the charges lately laid against the force were true, it would be impossible for the work done to make such a good showing. It is evident that taken of a whole, the R.N.W.M.P. deserves the confidence which has

Bachelors Beat The Married Men

On Wednesday afternoon the fresh and spry bachelors of Blairmore met up against the feeble and bagged "sponsors" in a hockey match on the Blairmore rink. The game afforded more fun than keeps and kept the referee and judges a-going to find who the greenhorns got their justifications for the many new tricks and jinks made use of by them.

One daring venture was that of bachelors' raiding the breadth occupied by the bachelors, who made his way up the rink towards the net which was protected by the "Rainbow," and on arriving within six feet of the buttress beat the rubber and landed himself heel-trip in the net. Meanwhile goal-keeper Ulrich was sailing back and forth where the upturned right-wing had started to stray.

Some of the bachelors desisted to claim a foul, but the married men objected, stating that a "turkey" was no foul.

The skate on Alex. Morency's spare foot became loosened during the second period, and of all the players he suffered most, and was disabled with impunity until rescued by Erle Hinds. With the love and affection of a father Frank rushed to Bro. Morency's assistance and at once began to alleviate his suffering by rubbing his skate with a piece of soft ice.

Schofield was up against it once. He ran into Mayor Lyon and could not get any further. Referee Paul declared equal honor.

Bro. Bigelow was somewhat at a loss for time but the application of a few hockey sticks to his back soon brought him around.

One goal shot by Danny Lewis was disputed on the grounds of professionalism, it being claimed that Dan had bet the cigars with Lyon Gales.

Doc Baker went up to Brisco once with the puck. Brisco told him to go, "way, he didn't want my 'em there. Baker wouldn't go down there any more—he just stuck the puck in the goal at thirty yards."

The game ended with a score of 7-5 in favor of the bachelors.

R. C. Green was official time keeper, while Harry Paul acted as referee.

The winners have decided not to play the Vancouver "Tigers" till June, but will in the mean time endeavor to swell the fund intended to purchase the "cup" (a fitting trophy) from the Blairmore Hardware Co. They also purpose playing the Coleman team in if sufficient inducements are offered.

The lineups were: Bachelors-Schofield, Pinkney, Irwin, Baker, Bedford, Lewis and Roy; Married-Lyon, Morency, Higgins, Morsony, Bigelow, Campbell and Shantz.

been pined in for so many years. For the welfare of the prairie province it is to be trusted that each member of the force will fall to remember the glorious traditions of the corps to which he belongs. But with the record shown there is not much need for any apprehension in this regard.

Brizo was there like a lion, and warded off a number of wild-directed shots.

The recent cold spell has served us very well in effectively completing the skating rink.

For situation it's anything to the Pass beaten and is a larger rink than that of Hillcrest. B. Rawlson figures on organizing a hockey team.

Another word about the situation—the rink is in the bottom of a small valley with rising land all around them. It is a good place for people to go skating any time that may be had.

The principle adopted by at least one team in the Pass, of roping in the fifth cents and turning you loose in a crowded rink where it is impossible to even see the ice, is causing financial disaster. Anything like this could not take place in Burnis.

L. C. Stevens has commenced mining classes in Burnis and we wish him every success. His qualifications are excellent for the teaching of work particularly as he understands that he is not only a first class mining man but has done a considerable amount of mechanical and electrical work, the latter becoming more and more prominent in up to date mining and students will do well to arrange to take a "course".

could not be taken by any sensi-

the boys of Bellevue.

We recorded during the last two

SAVED BY STRIKING MATCH

Thrilling Rescue of Astronauts From Sinking Balloon in English Channel

He is believed to have seen and nearly drowned in a sinking balloon in mid-channel, and then to have been rescued just in time by lighting a match, which he had brought with him as a distress signal—such is the thrilling experience that has befallen two members of the Royal Aero Club.

The two men lost while flying in their balloon, the Meteor, from London to Paris, were rescued by a boat from the coast.

They set out from Balmoral about seven o'clock yesterday morning, intending to come down on the East-borne sands. The balloon rose to a height of 4,000 feet.

After traveling for some time they heard a noise which they thought was that of the surf. A dead silence followed, and a moment later saw what they believed to be the Royal Sovereign lightship. Darkness came on at 8 P.M. and they shouted their loudest without avail.

The balloon continued to sink until they could no longer stand. Then they continued, but although several steamers passed quite close to them, they were unable to attract their attention.

At last, when they had all resigned themselves to their fate, they saw a small boat, 400 feet away, which as they later discovered, came from some fishermen who were passing through the sea.

The boat, however, could not hear them, and the aeronauts, as a last resource, beat them on the sides of the balloon became soaked and they began to sink until they could make it rise again. For two hours, as the balloon sank more and more, they shouted their loudest without avail.

The balloon continued to sink until they could no longer stand. Then they continued, but although several steamers passed quite close to them, they were unable to attract their attention.

At last, when they had all resigned themselves to their fate, they saw a small boat, 400 feet away, which as they later discovered, came from some fishermen who were passing through the sea.

The boat, however, could not hear them, and the aeronauts, as a last resource, beat them on the sides of the balloon became soggy.

Great Storms of Modern Times

The recent devastation caused by a hurricane in the island of Jamaica has powerfully affected the popular imagination, and it is to be expected that such catastrophes are rare.

When they occur it is commonly observed that they are the work of God, and that therefore special prayers are more singularly attacked. The superstitious nature nothing other than special judgments of the Almighty, while the popular mind sees only the occurrence of fixed laws.

Now that this is in mind, therefore, it may be well to refer to a noted other notable storm of a disastrous nature.

Few middle-aged people can remember the terrible storm which swept the Tay Bridge, a huge structure of steel wickerwork near the estuary of the River Tay, in Scotland, in 1879.

The bridge was swept by a tremendous gale, blowing at the rate of 100 miles an hour, and splitting the water. While it itself would have been a dreadful blow to any ship in the light of enlightened science, it was to be an imperishable monument to the genius of man. The engineer, Mr. Stevenson, journeying from Edinburgh to Aberdeen, was ploughing his way through the spray in the vehicle in which the structure stands, with six hundred yards out of the two miles of steel bridge behind him.

No one lived to record the dread experience.

The next edition will doubtless remember the terrible series of hurricanes of 1863, which swept over Central America, and the terrible one proposed to it and leaving wreck and ruin behind.

Peculiarly enough it did not follow the general course dictated of some as yet unscrutinized law. It spent its force somewhere in the West Indies, and then, having done so, saved the force of greater destruction.

Old country people in Canada still remember the terrible storm which swept over England on the 14th October, 1851, when houses were thrown down, trees uprooted, and telegraph wires and poles blown down, and life, about 150 British wrecks of shipping.

In the same year, however, followed what is commonly regarded as the great hurricane of history. In Halifax, Nova Scotia, the storm raged for days and carried off to that date the startling total of 300,000.

A storm, which was accompanied with a tidal wave nearly ploughed out Wellfleet, Cape Cod, and caused many to come nearer home, Nantucket and Quonset were the scenes of storms of unprecedented violence, and the former year, which cost three provinces $26,000,000. One could go on multiplying.

But the terrible cyclone that recently event in Jamaica prompts one to recall the stirring tale of 1869, when a large sum to rehabilitate and restore the condition of the planters.

I will, she exclaimed—I will not live with you another day!

A Good Scheme

A Woman's Perception Was Required to Defeat It

By EDWARD C. LONG

"There are a number of problems before the counterfeiter," said my friend Roberts, the detective, "but the most important one is to find out who makes them after they are made. There's more room for ingenuity in this part of the work than any other, and the most ingenious people come from this country than any other. All sorts of devices are resorted to get the stuff in circulation. Persons are roped in to be blindfolded over their eyes so they can't see them, and when they get their pay off, that the money they have been paid is all they get. In such cases the transaction is usually secret and when it is completed the rascals disappear without leaving any trace. Of course, there are some who make circulation in a small way and continuously a case that fell into my hands a few years ago is above the best of these."

"I was sent to a doctor who had reported some five dollar bill counterfeits to him. He was asked to identify one and he said that one of these bills would appear, be absorbed and after awhile another would be found and yet another. The only difference between the two bills was that the one boy had this: An old man one day went into a drug store and, after

"The clerk had received through a customer, who was beyond suspicion, one of these same bills, which he had given to a counterfeiter whom he was suspicious of this one. But instead of refusing it he gave the man his change and sent him on his way. When the old man who had gone to the bank to get the bill he had received to the bank, where it was presented, he was told that the old man who had given it to him was a criminal and he was arrested. After he was arrested he was brought to a house where he was questioned about his acts. It was evident that he was one of several persons who were sharing the counterfeiting business, but he had a clear conscience and he was therefore no better off than before."

"The fellow went back just once to the house, where he had to go to the police station to be questioned and the young woman happened to see him. She followed him and caught him on one of his hands getting rid of suspicious marks. After he was released he went to a house where he disappeared again. His shadow waltzed from his pocket like a ghost. In the afternoon he came out. Then a woman emerged, carrying a parasol and a reticule. The shadow, who had been for a moment a man, had now become a woman and she could see the woman walk than she recognized in the peculiar gait his form was in. She was evidently a policeman, but these gentlemen have a convenient way of not appearing when they are wanted, and so he turned into a building before she could get a cop.

"There was a store opposite and, luckily, a telephone in the store. Instead, the reporter went to a pawn shop. There he found a few men all over the city. One of the persons on whom they were passed had submitted to be victimized in order to catch the counterfeiter. He helped to find that the bill was counterfeit, he had pursued the same course as that pursued by the drug store. The old man who had given the bill was a woman. She had been followed, but she was not seen, making an effort to keep him from appearing to the watchful eye of one she concerned.

"When I got him, I gained time with the young woman, who was rather than I had expected that he would be very anxious to unmask. And yet it appeared that more than one person was interested in him. The more persons possessing a secret the more difficult it is to keep it.

"One day the president of the bank wanted him to be counterfeited received an anonymous note written in a language that I don't understand, such a street and number he might be afforded a clew to the counterfeiter. The note was turned over to me, and I found it was a note that had been received by a young woman, who told me that a man in a house directly opposite to the one in which she lived had given her a sum of money which could give no reason for this except that he appeared to have business.

"It occurred to me to know that I was not detecting working at a task, I would get a multitude of clews every day, and each clew would be more interesting than the last. Nevertheless in this case the girl seemed to be so positive that there was something wrong about the man opposite to her house. I thought the best way to do this was to transfer my quarters to the house she lived in, and so I took up an apartment house and set up a workshop. One of the first days I went in, I rented a room up in it.

"I had observed the man opposite to a few times before I could determine the exact nature of his work.

"Well, for goodness sake, aren't you

CHILDISH COSTUME.

Simplicity, Yet Richness, in This Fur Coat.

OF MOLENTINE AND BEAVERS.

The little coat of moleskins is matched by a light-colored bonnet and both are made of Spanish marten fur. The fur-trimmed muff completes the furry delineations of this small girl.

Buttressed hats are worn by all children, and the picture shows a bonnet of white buckskin with ribbed stockings of heavy white silk.

Hints Worth Remembering.

An excellent way to prevent clothes from freezing to the clothesline is to dip a cloth in warm salt water and lay it across the line with it.

To restore a waterproof coat, dissolve a handful of best green lime in a pint of water and wash the garment with the solution, wipe the coat with dry linen parts.

This should be done at intervals of about three weeks.

To remove a hardened water stain, soak a cloth in warm water and rub it over the stain as useless for years should be equal to new.

The frame of old umbrellas or canes may be used very artistically for creepers in a garden. Just open them, strip off the silk, sharp the handles a little and thrust them open into the ground.

Modest, Yet Very Simple.

The cutaway coat is really not a style suitable for many young girls, but this pretty little costume pleases the eye and is a success.

English worsted in brown and green mixture is the fabric used, and the

Cut at the Plate.

A young gentleman, on a visit to Paris, there impressed the young lady who was with him by his manner of eating at a fashionable hotel. Of course he couldn't afford it, and he had to economize in every way.

He happened on cap occasion to be taken to a restaurant.

He sat down at a table with a young man and his friends, his place in an automobile.

"John, do you love me?"

"Yes, I do, I do, I do."

"You adore me?"

"I do, I do, I do."

"Will you always love me?"

"Yes—look here, dear, what have you been and gone and ordered home now?"—San Francisco Examiner.

The Test.

Customer—What's the terrible racket going on in the back part of the store?

Shopkeeper—You mean the loud talking. That's the salesperson, partner, or whatever you call it, and you're morning, and he's firing one of the new clerks.—New York Sun.

An Explorer.

Willie's Big Sister—Willie, what do you mean by climbing upon Mr. Glad's chair? Come down at once.

Willie—I'm sorry for his soft spot, said he had one.—National Monthly.

Able Work.

Flikson—Thought you intended to sell Jones—Oh, no, I didn't.

Whitney—I used to read the alluring story my advertising man wrote; then I decided to keep it myself.

Busy Boy.

You are evidently in politics by bairing midday sun?—Fay, replied Senator Borgham.

"I was one of the busier boys ever saw in a torchlight procession"—Washington Star.

Ingenious.

Korbly—Must have unusual power of concentration.

"Yes, otherwise he would not regard most of his writings as poetry."—Buffalo Express.

Star Trek.

Skinner—Did you see that light?

Lookout—No it's so dark I can't see a thing.—Harvard Lampoon.

THE DIFFERENCE.

What's Said Before Marriage and What's Said After.

He had called her the night of his life. A month ago he had never thought he couldn't live without her; that he needed her to run over his home and make it a home.

"Darling," he said enthusiastically, "I will go to the ends of the earth for you. What you say, that will I do; what you think, that will I do."

And the other night, in the presence of a number of guests,

"Well, for goodness sake, aren't you ever going to learn anything?" Are you going to be a dutch wife?—He made a face.

"I thought you had to do a thing, like that. Use your brain; think what you would do. You ought to do it."

"If a nine-year-old child acted that way I'd spank him. You make me think good and true, you do."

And all the time he had been trying to teach him to be a good husband.

"What's the difference?"

"Mother, with you wouldn't anything disturbing when George is calling on me."

"Why not, indeed?"

"I don't know. It sounds common."

"Common, eh? We have to eat, don't we?"

"Of course."

"George knows we eat and use dishes?"

"That's very true."

"George always thinks that dishes have to be washed, therefore someone has to wash them."

"But, mother..."

"Don't you talk about it?"

"If you keep on talking about it George may discover that you make father a wife, and he may think that same wife is coming to him he should propose to me."—Mrs. Magazine.

Prepared For Him.

"This is the opportunity of a lifetime, madam," declared the smooth-faced coquettish coquettish as he stood at the door.

"To serve me I've heard that before," thought the housewife.

"Opportunity knocks at everyone's door, but only once," continued the caller.

"Opportunity is a very persistent visitor."

Good News For

Homesteaders

By far the biggest piece of news given out this year and which will be received by the people of the West with the utmost joy is the announcement from Ottawa of the latest change in the homestead and pre-emption law. The Calgary News Telegram in its issue of January 8 contains the following interesting account: The recent change allows a man to secure his pre-emption land without actually living on his homestead, providing his homestead duties have been fulfilled. Formerly the law called for a man who had a homestead to continue upon it, even though he had concluded his actual homestead duties in order to retain his pre-emption. That meant that he had to stay on his homestead until the duties relating to his pre-emption were fulfilled. Such a law might require a homesteader to hold his original quarter for almost double the period called for in the homestead service in order to retain the pre-empted land.

By this new arrangement, a homesteader who has put in the necessary residence ad qualifed with his improvements, may receive his patent and sell or dispose of the quarter as he desires, regardless of whether his pre-empted land duties are completed or not.

The letter of advice received from the Dominion Land Office says that in view of the recent change in the regulations, pre-emption entries will not be handled without reference to the question of whether or not the holder thereof continues to own his patented homestead.

Shooting Affair At Bellevue

The inhabitants of the bush part of Bellevue were awakened out of their sleep on Monday night by the sound of rifle shots.

It appeared that a Russian man and his wife had a quarrel and the woman got the worst of the deal, getting some of her teeth kicked out and her face badly swollen. She came down, accompanied by her brother, she went to the hotel for help, when the police and some of the men in and around the hotel went up to capture the husband. When they arrived they were welcomed by a volley of shots from a 22 rifle.

One of the bullets hit one of the men named Thomas Wright and peneetrated into his thigh. He was taken to the hospital, where the bullet was extracted by Dr.

MacKenzie, after which the police made another attempt to get the man, but could not get inside the house. One of the men came out and was called upon to come forward, but would not obey, with the result that he received a bullet in the calf of the leg. The police and helpers waited for a while, till the woman came back, having had her wounds attended and bandaged up, and went into the house. She was followed by the police, who made an attempt to get at her, husband, and it was a long and tedious struggle with the assistance of the woman that the enraged man was brought out of the house.

When they got him out, the woman sent a shower of pane, potato skins and lunch pails at the party to whom he had not long before cried for help.

The man was taken to the police station, where he awaits trial on a charge of attempted murder.

for a big fairy dress carnival to be held on the Blairmore rink on Saturday night, February 1st. Suitable girls will be awarded and good music will lend a pleasant effect to the programme.

Owing to lack of "light juice," the Blairmore and Blairmore rink games between Frank and Blairmore on the local rink was postponed. A large number of spectators from Frank and Blairmore were on hand, and their disappointment was really regrettable.

Oscar Mortimer, the well-known heavy-weight pugilist, was in town this week. Mortimer is matched for a bout to take place at Cranbrook early in February, and is open to challenge any heavy-weight in the Western provinces.

The Fernie hockey team journeyed to Tabor this week, where they were defeated in a score of 5-3. Wallace of the Fernie team was slightly injured, and in consequence could not attend the Blairmore-Sherman game at Calgary.

On Saturday night last Chinook was raided by the police, who hoped to unearth a wholesale gambling program. However, they were evidently too late, for only managed to bust up the Chinese laundry, which was the scene of the gambling. The Chinese laundry was closed, and the police were unable to find any evidence of gambling.

The police are investigating the case, and expect to find out what the Chinese laundry was doing. It is believed that the Chinese laundry was the scene of the gambling.
